

U.S. Denies Moscow Spying

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States reacted sharply Friday to a Soviet statement that the Soviet government on four U.S. Embassy attaches.

The embassy said it has protested and denied Soviet charges that the four had engaged in improper activities outside Moscow.

Subsequently the Pentagon in Washington said "appropriate retaliatory action has been taken." It declined to say exactly what was done, but presumably the action affected the Soviet Embassy staff in Washington.

Philly Negroes Don't Qualify

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Less than ten per cent of more than 300 Negroes who placed their names on a job referral list met qualifications for either journeymen or apprentice status in the construction industry, the city's Human Relations Commission reported Friday.

The report said that one reason there is such a lack of qualified Negro craftsmen is because union membership policies in most cases have rigidly restricted the number of new members, both white and Negro.

Evers Murder Rifle Identified

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A Mississippi Delta farmer testified Friday the rifle believed used to kill a Negro integration leader here was identical in every respect to one he traded Byron de la Beekwith.

Innis T. McIntyre of Ita Bena, Miss. told a circuit court jury that he and Beekwith, an anti-segregationist, were "gun nuts" who collected and traded guns frequently.

200 Picket In Chester

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—About 200 persons picketed in downtown Chester Friday night in what a civil rights leader said was the start of a boycott of center city stores, banks and possibly transit facilities.

The leader, Stanley E. Branche, chairman of the Chester Committee for Freedom Now, a Negro group, said the boycott will continue in an effort to make the school board end what his group considers de facto segregation.

3 Americans Die In Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. helicopter on a combat mission near the southern tip of Viet Nam crashed and burned Friday, carrying three Americans and seven Vietnamese to their deaths, authorities reported Saturday.

The lone survivor, the American copilot, was evacuated to Saigon in serious condition.

Laborite Victory

LONDON (AP)—The Labor party, hungry for power after 13 years in the shade, racked up an impressive victory in Britain's municipal elections, returns showed Friday night.

Most impressive was a solid Laborite majority on the Greater London Council, the capital's government.

The ruling Conservatives were battered generally in Thursday's county elections.

Throgs See Mac

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Huge throngs filed past the open coffin of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur Friday in a salute to the man who gave Norfolk the splendor of his life and chose this city for his resting place in death.

The turnout appeared to be surpassing those in New York and Washington earlier this week.

Strike Delay Buoy Market

NEW YORK (AP)—A moderate stock market recovery Friday accompanied the postponement of the railroad strike deadline for 15 days.

Volume of 5.01 million shares was a shade below average for 1964 and compared with 5.32 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average made a small gain of .40 a 821.75.

Goldwater Blasts Coexistence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona lashed Friday at President Johnson's foreign policy, saying the administration "is willing to see a world half slave and half free."

The candidate for the Republican presidential nomination charged also the administration is treating this nation's Western allies with more suspicion than Communist nations and "building a wall around us and isolating us from the Western community."

An enthusiastic audience greeted Goldwater as he spoke to the 12th annual Republican Women's Conference. The group Thursday heard Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Goldwater's chief announced rival for the nomination, warn against "extremism" in the party.

Goldwater's right hand was bandaged during his appearance. An aide said later that he had pulled a shoulder muscle while working around his home and that doctors applied a bandage to his hand to preclude handshaking or autograph signing which might aggravate the shoulder injury. The aide described it as not serious.

Goldwater told the women, "It is ridiculous and dangerous thinking to talk about coexistence with an enemy bent on your destruction."

Americans should not help the Soviet Union economically unless the Russians are "doing something for us," such as pulling all their troops out of Cuba and holding free elections in some of the satellite nations, he said.

At one point, Goldwater mentioned President Johnson's campaign to cut down on the government's electricity bill by turning off some lights in the White House.

U.S. Fears Lawless Acts In Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials privately expressed growing concern Friday over the Brazilian military's departure from constitutional procedures, although there was no official comment.

The State Department declined to comment pending Saturday's scheduled election of a new Brazilian president.

Brazil's military men ousted President Joao Goulart last week, charging him with being pro-Communist.

The military Thursday night issued what it called an "institutional act" which suspended political rights and revoked mandates of federal, state and municipal legislators without recourse to the courts.

Latin-American sources in Washington were anxiously awaiting the election to see if it reflects a triumph of ultra-conservative influences.

Leftist Purge Law Attacks Subversion

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—The new president to be elected by Congress on Saturday is being cautioned in advance that the anti-subversion act arming him for a purge of extreme leftists is strong medicine.

Brazilian newspapers voiced both hopes and fears for the measure, decreed by the revolutionary command that deposed President Joao Goulart, to drive Communists and fellow-travelers from positions of influence.

Virtually with a gun at his back, Congress seemed to be preparing half-heartedly and mechanically for the election, expected to put Gen. Humberto Castello Branco in the presidency for the remainder of Goulart's term. The term will end Jan. 31, 1966.

Pleasant Valley Kills Merger Plan

STROUDSBURG — The possibility of a school district merging Stroud Union and Pleasant Valley was nipped in the bud when the Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee refused to explore further the proposed merger.

After learning of Pleasant Valley's action, the president of the Stroud Union School Board said last night he expected his board to re-endorse a four-unit plan of county school reorganization.

"This is the general feeling," said Robert Helman. Asked what he thought of Pleasant Valley's refusal to consider a merger, he said, "The fact we made the offer is self explanatory."

John C. Mills, Pleasant Valley supervising principal, said last night, "The joint school committee decided at its Wednesday meeting to stand by its earlier commitment to a single county unit."

The Monroe County School Board has been marking time on a reorganization plan pending outcome of Stroud-Union-Pleasant Valley negotiations. The merger proposal posed the possibility of a three-district county plan as an alternative to either a four-district or single county unit plan.

The county board must submit a reorganization plan to the Basic Council of Education before July 1. The plan must be retained in the county school office for 30 days after it is finally adopted. During this time appeals by aggrieved districts can be attached to the plan.

Stroud Union Idea

Stroud Union initiated the merger move at a meeting March 24 in Brodheadsville. "We deeply appreciate the graciousness of the Stroud Union Board in coming to us," Mills said, "however, our original contention was that the betterment of the entire county would be served by a county unit."

"Some other sections believed us and more have been added. Our letting down on our original contention would not be good. We want other people to believe that we mean what we say," the Pleasant Valley administrator said.

Raymond Roberts, Stroud Union board member from Stroud Township, said, "I am disappointed they did not make more of an effort to explore the possibility of a merger. Certainly the lack of further communication with our board impeded the study started and ended on March 24."

"I personally still feel we both had something to offer one another for the betterment of the education of our children and on this basis alone I would expect further study."

"Perhaps when reorganization forces the establishment of a nine-man school board in Pleasant Valley there will be a better atmosphere for discussions on this subject that won't be hampered by township barriers," Roberts said.

Baptist Banker Charged With Theft

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A $5,000-a-year banker-clerkman who had lived opulently was charged with embezzlement Friday after federal bank examiners found a $972,371 discrepancy in books of the Fairfield National Bank.

Lee Brown, a cashier-bookkeeper at the bank, was charged with embezzling $15,000. The FBI said the bank examiners still are trying to track down the $972,371 irregularity uncovered by an audit.

Mayor Zack Smith, owner of a paint store, said the feelings of this farming community of 6,300 population are "surprise and embarrassment" that speculations about Brown's high living may have had a basis in fact.

Brown wrote a note saying as much.

MacArthur Cold War Plan Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—A South Carolina congressman said Friday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur once described in detail to him his post-Korean plan for ending the cold war.

Rep. William Dorn, D-S.C., said the plan in essence was to threaten Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin with the complete rearmament of Germany and Japan unless the Russian leader lived up to his promises to allow self-determination for the peoples of Eastern Europe.

The existence of such a plan was described Wednesday by reporter Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service.

But Considine said MacArthur told him, in an interview 10 years ago, "I don't feel it would be fair to reveal my plan to you. It would be an unfair burden on you as a reporter."

Dorn said MacArthur disclosed the plan to him in a 1956 interview in New York.

Dorn wrote out a brief description of what he said MacArthur told him and inserted it in the Congressional Record Monday night.

It said:

"The plan suggested by MacArthur to President-elect Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles was to threaten Russia with a complete rearmament of Germany and Japan, possibly including nuclear power, unless Stalin agreed to live up to his promise of the self-determination of the peoples of Poland, East Germany, and Central Europe."

Friday, Dorn told a reporter MacArthur as telling the president-elect that he-Eisenhower alone had the prestige and authority to bring such a plan off, and that he should immediately, as soon as he was inaugurated, hold a man-to-man meeting with Stalin on neutral ground.

Bufalino, Bruno Go For A Ride

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Russell Bufalino testified Friday that after arriving here Wednesday he called Angelo Bruno and invited the alleged Cosa Nostra figure for a ride and a few drinks.

Bufalino, 50, Kingston, Pa., dress firm expediter, is being given a hearing here by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service on his appeal of a deportation order.

Bruno of Philadelphia was identified by Joseph Valachi in testimony before a Senate subcommittee as the head of the alleged Cosa Nostra crime syndicate in Philadelphia.

Bufalino, testifying at the hearing, said that when he met Bruno, the latter was with a man named Abe Hogberg.

Asked about Hogberg, Bruno testified he didn't know anything about him.

Bufalino also stated that in his estimation, Bruno "is a fine man. In spite of what you think, I don't think there is none better," he told U.S. Atty. Vincent Schiano who cross examined him.

Bufalino was ordered deported after he attended an alleged crime convention at Apalachin, N. Y., in 1957.

Earlier, testifying as a character witness, Judge Adrian Bonnelly, president judge of Philadelphia County courts, said he believed Bufalino would make a good United States citizen. He said he had known Bufalino's family since 1912.

Bonnelly said Bufalino denied having anything to do with the Apalachin group.

Questioned as to dress and coal firms in which he had been involved, Bufalino said he had "just loaned money as investments." Schiano expressed surprise Bufalino could lend thousands of dollars on a declared income of $175 a week.

Good Morning!

No matter how much you nurse a grudge, it won't get better.

State Hopes Court Allows April Primary

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's chief legal officer said Friday he believes that a federal court judge will permit the Commonwealth to hold its primary elections April 28 despite a ruling that state constitutional provisions on legislative reapportionment violate the U.S. Constitution.

Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandro said he would ask Judge Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia on Monday to stay an order enjoining the Commonwealth from holding the elections.

Alexandro said he felt the judge would give an immediate reply. If it is unexpectedly negative, the attorney general said, the Commonwealth will go immediately to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Supreme Court Order

Alexandro said the over-all decision will be appealed to the Supreme Court later, adding:

"Our position is that the Pennsylvania Constitution, which has existed almost 100 years without question, should not be put aside except by the highest court in the land."

Alexandro called the news conference to clarify what he termed inaccuracies in published descriptions of the court ruling and to correct statements by persons "trying to make political fodder."

Alexandro said he was disturbed by a statement made Thursday night in Philadelphia by Sen. Charles R. Weiner, Democratic floor leader, that the 1963 acts redistricting the House and Senate were political and not based on the constitution.

Joseph M. Barr, Democratic mayor of Pittsburgh, issued a statement Friday hailing the court as a smashing victory for all the people of Pennsylvania.

Followed The Law

The Democratic minority in both houses used those arguments in unanimous opposition to the reapportionment acts at a special session last December.

"There is no suggestion in this opinion that the Pennsylvania Constitution was not strictly followed," said Alessandro. "On the contrary, the opinion points out that the method adopted by the Republican controlled legislature is specifically required by the constitution."

"This court said the Pennsylvania Constitution is in violation of the 14th Amendment because it provides for invidious discrimination."

The court held that a provision limiting Philadelphia to eight senators, while its population entitlement is nine, is invidious—that is objectionable, obnoxious, and injurious.

"You can't say the Republican legislature did anything wrong in that provision," said Alessandro. "It had to follow the constitution."

The court also held that Westmoreland and Luzerne counties are entitled to two senators rather than the one senator the 1953 act gives them.

"But to be strictly correct they are entitled to two only if they have more than the one and three-fifths population ratios required by the constitution," said Alessandro. "And they do not."

He said the court decided that one and a half ratios are sufficient, adding:

"This court, in effect, has made a judicial amendment to the state constitution."

Alexandro said the legislature "had no alternative" but to follow the state constitutional provision that each of the 67 counties is entitled to one House member, regardless of whether a county's population is equal to or larger than a full ratio.

Ratios are established for the Senate by dividing the state's total population by 50 and for the House by dividing the total population by 200.

"Here again the legislature had no alternative," said the attorney general.

Court Order Stops Wildcat Rail Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A work stoppage by railroad switchmen reporting sick spread along the Southern Pacific in Northern California Friday but the railroad quickly obtained an antistrike injunction in federal court.

The stoppage began at Roseville Thursday and spread Friday to yards at Oakland, Tracy, Martinez and Stockton.

The railroad contended in its petition for an injunction that the stoppage violated "the President's 15-day moratorium. The order applies to California only."

Max Layton, general vice chairman of the Switchmen's Union of North America, said the work stoppage was not sanctioned.

The railroad's petition for an injunction said the stoppage could lead to the layoff or discharge of 35,000 SP employees.

The SP said passenger trains were not affected. The railroad added that the stoppage occurred only in Northern California and had no effect on mainline operations.

"We certainly do not sanction this thing," Layton declared. "We entered into an agreement with the President of the United States to hold off for 15 days, and we should hold to it."

Judge Sweigert called his order Friday a "temporary injunction. Last week he issued a temporary restraining order against all railroad unions forbidding them to take any strike action locally pending national developments."

Judge Sweigert said his order Friday was supplemental and strengthened by naming five local chairmen of the switchmen's union and by citing the President's 15-day moratorium.

Rails, Unions Start 15-Day Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP)—Urged briefly with Johnson in the White House rose garden. There they were told that the results of their efforts will have profound bearing on the future of all collective bargaining in America.

After the mediators' afternoon session with management negotiators, White House press secretary George Reedy told reporters Johnson has requested that he be given on next Wednesday "a considered report on the progress and the effectiveness" of the meetings.

Reedy declined to describe the atmosphere at Friday's talks, but disclosed the daily meetings will continue "for however many days are necessary." They will be held at the White House or the executive office next door—so Johnson can keep an eye on them—and there will be no transcript kept and the negotiators will release no news on their talks.

Only strenuous last-ditch efforts Thursday night by Johnson brought the 15-day postponement of walkout which had been scheduled for 12:01 a.m. local time.

Donovan Calls Fidel Castro A Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—James M. Donovan said Friday Fidel Castro "has brilliantly played the United States against Russia, and both against Red China."

Donovan is the New York lawyer who negotiated the deal with Castro for release of survivors of the 1961 Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion in return for U.S. drugs and medical supplies.

Donovan addressed a National Press Club luncheon, and was asked whether he believes Castro to be a "wild eye, irrational kook."

"Castro is crazy like a fox," Donovan replied. "He has brilliantly played the United States against Russia, and both against Red China, for some years, with demonstrable success."

Donovan said it is absurd to accept some of the caricatures of Castro which he said are bandied about the United States.

7,500 U.S. Troops To Quit Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Friday it is withdrawing about 7,500 troops from West Germany and the Bonn government raised no objection.

In the past, when cold war tensions were higher, any move to reduce U.S. military strength in Europe would have brought strong protests from the West Germans.

The Pentagon said the units being brought back to the country are the last save one of those sent to Germany during the 1961 Berlin crisis, plus troops airlifted to Europe in the "Long Thrust" training exercise of last January-February.

Left over from the 1961 buildup are three artillery battalions, two armored battalions, and one armored cavalry regiment.

All but one of the armored battalions will start returning next month. The five units being withdrawn total about 5,100 men.

One armored battalion is being kept with the 7th Army in West Germany. A Pentagon spokesman said this is to offset a reduction in 7th Army strength which came about when a battalion-size unit was sent from the 7th Army to the U.S. garrison in Berlin late in 1961.

Man's Place in God's Universe ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buecher

Scripture—Genesis 1:26-30; Psalm 8; Luke 12:4-7.

Man is created in God's image, and given dominion over the material universe. He is put in the Garden of Eden to till it, be fruitful and multiply.—Genesis 1:26-30.

David acknowledges the supremacy of God, glorifying the created world and the lofty position assigned to man. Yet he questions man's worthiness of such honor.—Psalm 8:1-5.

The Psalmist says, though man was made lower than God, he has a spiritually the lower orders lack. Thus, he was intended to dominate God's world.—Psalm 8:6-9.

Jesus teaches that man, being greater than matter, is worth more to God; and to fear only that which is eternal.—Luke 12:4-7.

Man's Place In God's Universe

By R. H. Ramsey

Before we examine today's lesson in detail, we should note three factors which make the creation of man so important in the Genesis narrative; more space is devoted to this creative act than to any other; this is the only time in which we find a plural pronoun us, relating to God, indicating a council of the Trinity; and the creation of man is God's last and final instance of creative activity.

The phrase, "in the image of God" (Genesis 1:26), has been given different interpretations by various theologians. However, they all agree on one major point: it is not a physical imagery. Rather it is an image of true knowledge, righteousness and holiness, all of which were lost after man's fall in sin.

Additionally, being created in God's image, man has a rational and moral nature, and an element of spirituality. Man lost none of these through sin. Indeed, he could not lose them without ceasing to be man, and in turn, losing his divinely assigned position of dominion over the earth and its creatures.

In verses 28-30, we have God's commands to man regarding his conduct on earth. Not only is man to have dominion over all creatures beneath him, he is to "be fruitful and multiply," that is, to produce offspring to replenish the earth and subdue it.

In verses 29 and 30 we find another indication of the sovereignty of Jehovah, who has ordained that even the feeblest representatives of humanity should be His champions, silencing all who deny His goodness and providence. While speaking of the majesty and glory of the created heavens, the Psalmist emphasizes the lofty position given man by the Creator. Though he implies a strong negation of man's worthiness to be thus honored (vv. 3, 4), it is not in comparison with the material universe. Instead, it is in comparison with God.

Then he proceeds to answer his own question. Man was made lower than God, but he has been set over the whole of creation. And his domain becomes more extensive and absolute as his intellectual and moral culture advances.

Let us now examine man's twofold reaction to the character of God, as put forth in Luke 12:4-7. In these verses we find two uses of the word fear, one which is urged upon men, and the other type of fear we should be delivered from. In verses 4 and 5 we are told not to be afraid of man, because all they can do is destroy the body. Rather we should fear God, for He alone has the power to cast man's eternal soul into Hell.

World's Fair Exhibit Nears Completion

WASHINGTON, D.C. — World headquarters of the Seventh-day Adventist Church announces near completion of its exhibit in the Protestant and Orthodox Center of the New York World's Fair. Installation is scheduled for the week of April 13.

The report describes the exhibit as one few viewers will soon forget. Using a dramatic new technique called Illumi-drama, the exhibit takes the viewer right into the scenes that take place in the earth's last hour.

Stereophonic sound, moving light, and three-dimensional effects combine with a backdrop of painting curving 20 feet across and ten feet high, to graphically present the second coming of Christ as described in Holy Scripture.

The drama occurs in four-minute cycles and will be continuous from the time the fair gates open at 9:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. or later.

Guests will be invited to register for a weekly free gift, the report said. Each Sunday the complete ten-volume set of The Bible Story by Arthur S. Maxwell, will be given to one of those who registered during the previous week.

A specially prepared recording of sound effects will be given all adult visitors. No literature will be given out unless requested by individual visitors, members here were told.

Other exhibits in the Protestant and Orthodox Center include the Lutherans, Methodists, Church of Christ, Salvation Army, Greek Orthodox, Billy Graham, Swedenborgians, Americans United, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, and Baptists.

Besides exhibits, the pavilion features a wide-screen theater where programs and films will be scheduled continuously.

There is a small chapel for meditation and a children's "garden" where parents may safely leave their offspring under competent supervision while they visit other areas of the fair.

The Protestant and Orthodox Center is a short block to the right as one enters the main entrance to the fairgrounds. It is beside the Arch of the Americas, and will be easily recognized by the multi-colored court of the pioneers which forms the entrance to the pavilion.

MISSIONS, THE END OF AN ERA?

Throughout the mission world the chant of "Missionary Go Home!" is being echoed and re-echoed as new orders of nationalism engulf continents and nations. New leaders want the results of mission work but do not want the white missionary.

Under normal circumstances, this turn of events would bring joy to the hearts of all who labor in the fields, as their fondest hope has been to train natives to do for their brothers, and take over. It is part of the great plan that the white missionary should withdraw when the people are trained and are able to govern themselves under the Kingdom.

Native nationalism has been too impulsive, wanting the freedom, without the long training and preparation necessary. The result being chaos, active bloodshed and an hatred of anything "white."

"Leave your foreign aid and money here," they say, "but go, leave us, and never return." Graduation day has indeed come for the foreign missions. Now comes the testing, ready or not, the time has come. If the clergy have done their work well then the work will be carried on by those they have to leave behind. If not, then Christianity may disappear and which doctors again may rule with iron hand.

All over the world doors are being shut in the faces of those who would preach Christ and tell the wonderful story. The challenge "To The Ends of The Earth" has been met. How well remains to be seen. We have had our chance, and now the opportunity may be taken away for all time!

There is, however, a great untouched mission field right at our doorstep. Home has been neglected. While the glamour of foreign service has perhaps blinded our Christian workers to the situation here at home, the fact remains that there are more heathens right here in America than there are in wilderness jungle areas.

A veteran of World War II, he served in the Pacific Theatre with the Army Air Corps.

In 1951 he was recalled to active duty with the U.S. Air Force, serving as Wing Chaplain at James Connally AFB, Waco, Texas. He holds a reserve commission as a Lt. Col.

The job ahead, in our bigger cities, has more dangerous and adventurous and downright heartbreaking than anything that ever faced mission workers in Africa, India, South America, or South of Pago Pago.

I believe that the foreign phase of mission work may be at an end. There is still time allotted, however, to concentrate our full effort on the lost here at home. Not only is this a job for the dedicated missionary, or Christian worker, but it is also a job for you.

We are our brother's keeper!

He first became interested in missionary work among the Indians in 1961 when it became necessary for him, because of an allergy condition, to spend two months in New Mexico.

Most of this time was spent living with missionaries to the Navajo Indians. Because of the dire need of presenting the Gospel to this the largest tribe of Indians in our nation, he formed the organization that since has become known as Bible Missions to the American Indians, Inc., a non-profit corporation, chartered under the laws of Pennsylvania.

Each summer, since he first visited among the Navajo Indians, he with his family spend several weeks working with missionaries in New Mexico.

The Rev. Herschel O. Halbert, executive secretary of the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Episcopal Church, New York, will be the speaker at the 2:30 p.m. service.

The Rev. John H. Diehl, III, rector of All Saints' Church, Lehigh, is presentation service chairman.

This is the third time he has served as a visiting missionary since he has been pastor of the Zion United Church of Christ in Stroudsburg.

Several new officers have been elected in addition to those already in service. Mrs. Paul Churro was elected to fill the newly created Deacon's office.

Elected as directors on the Parish Board of Christian Education were Mrs. Fred Quig, Mrs. Earl Hughes and Robert Altomose.

Rev. Giles Is Guest Speaker

EAST STROUDSBURG

The Rev. Dr. Philip Randall Giles, executive secretary of the Joseph Priestly District of the Unitarian - Universalist Society, will speak Sunday at 7 p.m. in East Stroudsburg.

He will address a group in a room, on the second floor of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. in East Stroudsburg.

The Rev. Giles is former general superintendent of the Unitarian Church of America, and subsequently vice president for Field Relations of the Unitarian Universalist Assn. He was named to this post in 1953.

Since 1949 he has held various administrative posts in first the Unitarian Church of America and then the Unitarian Universalist Assn.

A veteran of World War II, he served in the Pacific Theatre with the Army Air Corps.

In 1951 he was recalled to active duty with the U.S. Air Force, serving as Wing Chaplain at James Connally AFB, Waco, Texas. He holds a reserve commission as a Lt. Col.

The job ahead, in our bigger cities, has more dangerous and adventurous and downright heartbreaking than anything that ever faced mission workers in Africa, India, South America, or South of Pago Pago.

I believe that the foreign phase of mission work may be at an end. There is still time allotted, however, to concentrate our full effort on the lost here at home. Not only is this a job for the dedicated missionary, or Christian worker, but it is also a job for you.

We are our brother's keeper!

Railroad Strike

President Johnson won only a delay in the inevitable railroad showdown Thursday, when railroads and unions agreed to go back to the negotiating table for 15 more days in their five-year battle over work rules, jobs and pay.

The President will probably have to face another crisis at the end of his reprieve. The chances of voluntary agreement by railroads and unions on the knotty issues of this strike situation are very slim.

The President reportedly has no personal solution for the complicated issues and has no new legislation drafted to force further bargaining on a final settlement.

If the 15-day bargaining fails, he will either have to allow a nation-wide strike or ask Congress for some radical new legislation which would be a very hot political and economic potato.

And yet, the President said Thursday, "The extremely serious consequences of a nationwide shutdown of the railroads are plain and clear." He indicates that neither he nor the nation can allow such a crippling strike to take place.

Even if it is a hot potato for the President to handle, he cannot sit idle while a railroad strike disrupts almost every facet of our commercial and business life. From mail to food, railroads play an essential part in our national daily life.

Unfortunately, neither the railroads nor the unions are clearly justified in all their demands. The issues are complicated, but both sides have just complaints.

Nevertheless, the greatest issue at stake is the public interest and the national economic welfare.

The President will be justified in using the powers of his office to force a settlement and avoid a national strike, no matter how unpopular that may be with the railroads and the unions.

Cold War Changes

No matter how much we dislike the words "peaceful coexistence," because they admit no "total victory" is possible in the cold war, the historical fact is that the free nations of the world have been living a sort of peaceful coexistence with the communist enemy for almost 20 years.

There have been limited wars in Korea, South Viet Nam, Suez and other trouble spots, but the two major armed camps of the world, stymied in a balance of terror, have not annihilated each other... yet.

The cold war has in fact changed radically in recent years.

While the nuclear balance is still maintained by Russia and the West, a third armed camp has developed in Communist China.

Russia has been forced to more peaceful relations with its capitalist enemies while it is engaged in more and more heated battle with its communist enemy in China.

The relaxation of open conflict between Russia and the West made possible a story on Page 1 today which describes the withdrawal by the United States of about 7,500 troops sent to West Germany during the 1961 Berlin crisis.

Khrushchev himself congratulated the West last week for its "sober view" of world affairs.

The intensifying battle between Russia and Communist China made possible the discussion below by Walter Lippmann.

The rise of China to a position of world power has disastrous possibilities.

But it could lead, as Lippmann suggests, to a new stage of the cold war in which Russia and China are so busy fighting each other that neither will be able to pursue fully aggressive actions against the free world.

Comment Of The Day

"For a long time I considered announcing flatly that even if drafted, I would not accept the nomination.

"Let me say with all the force at my command that only the fact that I believe no American has the right to take that position prevents me from so doing."

"Some... evidently believe that deep in my heart I do desire the nomination and that I am "only waiting until the right moment to make my move."

"This is not true, but it seems to be part of our American folklore to believe that every politician wants to be President."

Russia-China War

By Walter Lippmann

The Chinese-Soviet conflict has sharpened to the point where a suspension of diplomatic relations is a possibility. It is now plain, as some have been saying for some time, that the ideological debate is only the outward manifestation of the long-standing, pre-Communist collisions of interest between the Russians moving toward the Pacific and the Chinese moving north.

There have already been a great many little fights in the Russian-Chinese borderlands.

Yet, while there will almost certainly be more of them, and even if the two governments suspend diplomatic relations, even if the tirades become more violent, if that is possible, it is not likely that all this is leading to war. China is not a nuclear power and it cannot attack Russia, and Russia is in no mood for war.

Neither country is likely to feel it can afford the costs of mobilizing large ground armies for a conventional war. A large Chinese-Russian war would open both China and Russia to great pressure from their non-Communist adversaries.

If we ask ourselves what should be our own attitude toward the conflict of the two great Communist states, we can begin by recognizing that we are now benefiting by the conflict itself, by the fact that communism is no longer a united antagonist of the non-Communist world.

The conflict has caused the Soviet Union to relax its pressure on Eastern Europe and Germany. Also, there are a number of signs which indicate that Red China may have become much more prudent and circumspect in exercising pressure on Formosa and Southeast Asia than she would be if she had a free hand to exploit the opportunities.

Over and above this, there is a secondary question, which is whether we ought to give support to the Soviet Union because Red China is now the more active aggressor or, like General De Gaulle, do business with both and show no preference for either.

For us, the answer to this question is given. For we are in a state of open hostility with Red China, indeed legally in a state of "war," and we have to be on the side of the enemy of our enemy. But General De Gaulle is freer than we are, and he is able, as one might wish we, too, were able, to work both sides of the street.

Looking ahead, what is it possible to discern in the dim far distance? The eventual (in 10 or 20 years?) evolution of Communist China is something like present-day Russia, that is to say, into a Communist country more concerned with its own development than with external expansion.

If this is a good guess, the first confirmation of it is likely to come in the form of a relaxation of Chinese pressure on the southern frontier. This relaxation might show itself, for example, in a let-up of the pressure on India and in an acceptance of the fact that the Soviet Union will not help Red China if it challenges the American position in Formosa and in the off-shore islands.

Behind this acceptance of a reality might be the hope, which is not altogether unreasonable, that the successors of Chiang Kai-Shek in Formosa will make their peace with Peking. There are also some faint signs that Peking may have understood that even if the civil war in Vietnam is won by the Communists, the enormous presence of American sea and air power will remain to interfere with the conquest and occupation and exploitation of Indo-China.

American sea and air power is not one of those falling dominoes that so much is said about. If the signs can be read this way, it may not be too late for a political pacification on the southern frontiers of Red China.

'I Can't Tell Whether It Says Millions or Billions'

Reporter's Notebook

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

When you think of all the great literature in the world, it should make you uneasy to realize how little of it you—or I—have read.

Most of it is not simply adventure, or romance, though there's that—most great literature can help you clarify the problems of your own life.

It gives insight.

Beneath The Surface
And just think how much you can get out of a great book that's not just on the surface.

Take "The Sound and the Fury" by William Faulkner. Most will agree it's a great book.

There are many troublesome things about this work of art. The book is not easy to read. Faulkner gives an appendix at the front of the book, explaining a little about his characters. When he comes to the Negro cook, Dilsey, he simply says, "They endured." What does that mean, "They endured"?

Southern Family
The book concerns a degenerating southern family named Compson. The first of the book's four sections is written from the viewpoint of Benjamin Compson—who happens to be an idiot.

It's extremely difficult to write like an idiot, especially if you're a genius—as Faulkner was.

We might finish the book and wonder where the title came from: "The Sound and the Fury."

Signifying Nothing

But if we check our copy of Shakespeare's Macbeth, we find this passage: "Life is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."

From the extremely difficult stream-of-consciousness style in Ben's section, the book becomes progressively easier to understand and to read, until the last section is straight narration.

Why would Faulkner do this? He wasn't the kind of writer who works unconsciously.

For the answer, we can go to Faulkner's speech when he accepted the Nobel Prize for literature in 1954. He said: "I decline to accept the end of man... man will not only endure, he will prevail."

Endurance and Belief

By reading his works, we can see that Faulkner equaled endurance with belief in something worthwhile, and prevailing with understanding of self and surroundings.

Benjamin the idiot doesn't have belief in anything, much less understanding. He is thus incapable of making a significant act, according to Faulkner.

This is why his section is so hard to read—there is no understanding.

The intervening characters between Ben and Dilsey (who ends the book) keep going upward in belief, but all lack understanding of themselves and their surroundings. Thus, their sections are progressively easier to read, but they are still unable to prevail as human beings.

At the end of the book we get the Negroes, Dilsey. Though she is the cook of the degenerate Compsons, she believes strongly in God and in the legend of the Compsons.

Full of Belief

She is full of belief, but she too fails to understand. Dilsey cannot understand how a merciful God can let the Compsons decay.

This then brings us back to Faulkner's cryptic explanation of Dilsey: "They endured." Endured, yes. They—Negroes—endure because they believe very strongly in something. But we must note that Faulkner does not say, "they prevailed."

Actually, no one in the book is capable of prevailing—and by prevailing we mean rising above himself to the best of human nature.

No one can prevail because no one can understand truth, according to Faulkner.

Tribute To Dilsey
Dilsey comes closest. It is Faulkner's supreme tribute to the Negro.

"I grew up with Negroes; I slept with Negroes; I hold no prejudice..." he said once in Tokyo.

Beside the inner, deeper meaning, "The Sound and the Fury" is a wonderful story of a sick family.

By reading it, we can better understand ourselves and our surroundings. By reading any great literature, the same is true.

This is why Faulkner writes. By reading him, we may not only endure, but prevail.

We as taxpayers have two major problems. One is to collect all the revenue that is due us in order that the tax burden may be shared by all.

Let's find out if all new construction has been assessed, thus allowing us to receive what is due in taxes for this year. I have been told that some fairly large businesses have not been assessed as yet.

Then there is the problem of many of the camps in Monroe County. Many do not pay any taxes. Others have been assessed and exonerated from paying on most of their property.

Some are holding tax money in escrow, while we taxpayers are paying 4 1/2 percent interest on that amount of money.

Actually, I can't blame this camp. If other camps can get away with paying little or no taxes, they would be fools not to try it. All camps are businesses and should be taxed to their full evaluation just as any other business.

I would not want to remove them or close them, because they are a very good thing for many children from our crowded cities. I'm glad that they can enjoy our Poconos. But let the organizations that operate them pay full taxes for them.

Our county court has not been sympathetic to us regarding these camps. (Remembering you of the action taken regarding The Percy Crawford Camps.)

Perhaps if enough of us will send letters, cards, and petitions to our commissioners and Mr. Van Yeter concerning these camps a way may be found to help us.

If Bucks and Dauphin Counties can tax all real estate except actual church buildings, then why can't Monroe?

Our second major problem is to find out where our tax money is being spent—and determine if it is wisely spent.

In our rural Pocono Mountain Jointure area this task is not so difficult. Most of it goes to one thing—The Pocono Mountain Jointure School System.

A record budget of $1,215,075 for the 1964-65 school year has been proposed. We have built a beautiful and adequate school plant, which includes adequate athletic facilities for the 14 different activities that they now operate. (Very few homes in the area are as nice.)

We still have 27 years to pay this debt. This means that many of us will still be paying for it when we retire, and our children will have to help with this debt when they start paying taxes. We have just given all the teachers and all non-professional personnel a nice raise.

Now, does it make good sense to you for the jointure board to try to start a crash program for building a non-essential, a non-educational athletic development?

The architect has submitted their plans, the bids have been opened for this development. It is to include a stadium, showers, dressing rooms, and various other things that they don't speak of very loudly.

The total cost is to be $250,000, not including the interest that would be incurred since the money is not now available.

(Editor's Note: The board has announced the estimated total cost as $117,600.)

Why such favor to the athletic department?

Why shouldn't more challenge, encouragement, and equipment be given to the development of brain and talent other than athletics?

We taxpayers are hurting now. Most of those who are retreating have a very difficult time making ends meet. Some are losing homes that they have spent a lifetime working for. Those of us who are rearing our families and trying to buy or build homes are having a difficult time.

With the present tax outlook, perhaps it would be more sensible for us to build shacks, because many are losing their homes due to rising payments from increasing taxes. Also most of us cannot expect to be able to afford much taxes when we retire.

To the county court and all county officials: Help us to collect all the taxes that are due us.

To the school boards: Can't you have a little sympathy for us taxpayers and make sure that you spend our money wisely? Does it mean so much to you to "keep up with the Joneses"?

To the taxpayers: We want to keep our dignity. We don't want to be reduced to paupers or near paupers. So let's get our cards, letters, and petitions in to our officials. Don't stop the fight until we have won!

Anti-Smoking Posters Cheered; Dr. Jordan Preferred To Shanley

Editor, The Daily Record:

The exhibit of anti-cigarette posters in Wyckoff's Keystone Room this past week, was great. Our young people are very bright.

Today we are moved by the letter from Mr. G. E. Shanley, to ask may we say to our young students, through this letter to you, the following:

Through this past winter, while in Florida, we read both the Miami Herald and the Daily Record, and could have been satisfied with just the Record.

The general news was about the same in each paper, but the big, fat Miami paper was filled with "fillers."

In the Herald editorial, from which you quoted, the writer referred to "soggy old statistics" and a "mildewed 1907 law." He wrote disrespectfully of "men of the cloth, and dogooders."

Consider this: The ten commandments, laws we live by, were written over 2,000 years ago, and they are not moldy and soggy, but clean and alive and pointing out right from wrong.

Our own laws and Bill of Rights, of the 1770's are not mildewed, but serving us well. Why would a law written in 1907 be soggy? Silly is it not?

If our men of the cloth were not dogooders, what would Mr. Shanley have them be? To whom, would you, our good and smart youngsters, rather give your hand, to Mr. Shanley or to Dr. Jordan?

Of course it may be that Mr. Shanley has a stake in the cough and hack business.

Son, Brother In Two Earthquakes

Editor, The Daily Record:

A little news story of the Melvin family. I have a son Edward who just witnessed the earthquake in Anchorage, Alaska and didn't get hurt in any way.

I also had a brother Edward in the 1906 earthquake in San Francisco who didn't get hurt. My father's name also was Edward. He sailed from Belfast, Ireland, to New York. That took about 39 days. He settled in Lackawanna County, became president of the school board and squire for a great many years. To my knowledge, never had a doctor in his whole life, which was 83 years.

My married daughter has a son named Edward, so you see that name Edward appears to stand out as good health and good luck in the Melvin family.

I am probably the only one in the whole state of Pennsylvania who had a son and brother in the two worst earthquakes that ever happened in the United States.

Commissioners Thanked For Tourist Aid

Editor, The Daily Record:

In behalf of the businessmen who belong to the Western Pocono Vacation Assn., and as president, I wish to thank publicly the county commissioners for their decision to allocate funds for promotion of vacation resorts, withstanding pressure from all sides.

Under the law, they were correct in doing so.

I feel that the radio time would not be an opportunity to explain my feelings on behalf of the taxpayer who is assessed many more dollars than the average home-owner who benefits from his tax dollar through playgrounds, police guards for children at street crossings, recreation and picnic areas for fishing, school facilities, swimming pools, etc.

I too at one time in my younger days attended parent-teacher meetings, taxpayers' leagues, school board meetings, and also visited the county commissioners.

As I grew older, providence, was good to me and I acquired more properties, more problems and more taxes.

Sailors Lake is the resort that I also now own and thousands of young and elderly people come and enjoy facilities there, for example picnic tables and parking a no cost, and the YMCA day camp is there all summer.

In proportion the resort operators receive very little for their tax money from the county commissioners to help bring in from out of state more business, new property owners and developers to keep prospering in our county.

I feel very sorry for the widows and elderly people who are caught in the era of our inflation and left with properties and no funds or very little to keep and maintain them.

In these cases, instead of objecting to the progress and development of our resources, which is granted by the state and federal laws in matching funds for tourist promotion, highways, state and federal parks, preservation of forests, waters, etc., our widowed, retired, aged who have the financial burdens of maintaining and keeping their holdings direct their fire and energies on the legislators to grant and pass laws for higher old age pensions, assistance and social security, medicare, hospitalization, etc.

Here is where our weakness lies. We do have much money for all kinds of foreign aid subsidies for other nations for their development and millions of it goes down the drain.

Our legislators also plan substantial increases and additional incomes for maintenance of living and office expenses.

I do not wish to be critical of the discussions pro and con on the radio and press. But I do want to point out that if any taxpayer has anything coming under due process of law, he is a large tax payer or a small one, envy or greed should not enter into blocking these opportunities for progress and development.

For the large taxpayer or investor, if things go bad, he and his friends and other investors also go to the cleaners.

The businessmen were always good for tickets to church affairs, schools, fire house contributions and carnivals, raffles, lodges, clubs, etc.

We again say a big thank you to the county commissioners in their correct stand and next year contribute the full and just amount.

Mailmen Accuse Councilmen

Editor, The Daily Record:

On Monday night of the past week, there was a meeting of the town council at the Mt. Pocono Municipal School Building. Under discussion was the question of the parking problem at the Mt. Pocono Post Office.

We mailmen would like to know if the councilmen who have trucks are any better than us as far as parking there is concerned.

DEAR M. K.: The gentle-

Shawnee Composer Writes Music You See Through

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

SHAWNEE—Luigi Zaninelli lives in a little blue house on top of a knob near Shawnee and writes music you can see through.

"I have a very strong background of counterpoint," the Shawnee Press composer-in-residence said. "I'll write a piece of music and run a group of melodies simultaneously."

"But I do this without 'padding.' By this, I mean that the background isn't just a rumble or a loud undertone; the background is other melodies."

"This leaves the music with a pristine, airy feeling. Rather than listening through the major themes and bumping into the 'padding,' as is the case with many movie scores, I try to keep my music clean, so that you can listen through it."

Zaninelli's music is often light, punchy, happy, and vibrant, but it can mellow into fine lyrical passages.

His background is important for his work—born in 1932 in Raritan, N.J., of Italian-American parents, he knew the flavor of bristly Italian music.

He was serious about composing almost from the time he was born. A composition he wrote in high school was the basis for a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

While at the Curtis, he studied with Gian-Carlo Menotti, the composer of the well-known "Amahl and the Night Visitors." He traces his tutelage back to Brahms.

"Brahms taught Mandyczewski, Mandyczewski taught Scarlatti, Scarlatti taught Menotti, and Menotti taught me," he said.

He added that while at the Curtis, he spent a year in Italy with the aged Scarlatti.

"It was frightening," he said. "Scarlatti lived in a castle in the Italian Alps. He was 84 and lived there with his 26-year-old wife. While I was learning from him, his great dog would follow me around the castle... it was frightening."

While doing post-graduate work at Curtis, Zaninelli became an instructor in counterpoint and harmony. Subsequently, he was appointed head of the Solfege and Dictation Department at the institute.

Stroudsburg Firm Awarded $370,000 Mehl Plant Job

CINCINNATI, Ohio — The Vito Construction Co. of Stroudsburg has been awarded a $370,000 contract to build a new Mehl Manufacturing plant at Gravel Place in Stroud Township.

The announcement was made yesterday in Cincinnati by Joseph Mehl, president of the firm. Mehl is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla.

Emanuel Vito of the construction company said yesterday he hopes to begin work on the plastics plant "around May 1."

He said he will start construction as soon as Paul L. Edinger, Inc. of Stroudsburg, is finished with the demolition, grading and road work at the site of the old Erie-Lackawanna roundhouse.

Edinger said yesterday his phase of the work should be completed by May 1.

Mehl said he expects to be in operation before the end of the year. The plant is expected to employ 500 persons.

E-Burg School Budget Up $79,043

EAST STROUDSBURG — A tentative budget of $1,352,072 for the 1964-65 school year has been approved by the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Committee.

The new budget is up $79,043 over last year when the joint district operated on $1,273,029. The joint committee approved the budget at a meeting that lasted late Thursday night.

T. B. Courtright, joint committee secretary, said 16 changes were made in the budget Thursday and these changes will have to be written into the budget before it can be posted in individual school districts.

He said he hoped to have the budget ready for posting early next week. The budget will now have to be finally approved by boards in East Stroudsburg Borough and the townships of Smithfield, Middle Smithfield, Price, Lehman and Porter — districts making up the school system.

Tax rates for the coming year will not be set until the individual school boards determine how much money they must contribute to the total budget.

2 Accidents Investigated

EAST STROUDSBURG—Two persons escaped injury yesterday at 4:35 p.m. in a collision on Minink Ave., Shawnee, in Smithfield Twp.

Sally Ferrebee Jr., 16, of 274 Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg, driver of the car, and Betty L. Blair of 70 Glenview St., East Stroudsburg, passenger, were traveling East on Minink Ave. when Miss Ferrebee reportedly looked to the left.

She thought something darted in front of the car and she pulled the steering wheel to left colliding with a parked car on the left side of the road. The parked car was owned by Daniel E. Rodenbaugh, Roller St., East Stroudsburg.

Two Collide

Three persons escaped injury in an accident yesterday at 3:45 p.m. on Pocono Park Dr. and Bridge St., near the Save Gas station on West Main St., Stroudsburg.

George Oney Jr., of 24 S. Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, was traveling west on Pocono Park Dr. when his car struck a car driven by Lois Y. Romansky of 1718 Honesuckle Lane, Stroudsburg. Mrs. Edward L. Burnett was a passenger in the Romansky vehicle. The car was owned by Edward Burnett.

Les Rice, assistant Stroud Twp. police chief estimated minor damages.

In 1958, he became pianist and arranger for Fred Waring. Currently, he is devoting his full time to composition.

The range of his compositions is almost as large as their scope: He has done movie scores ("I found I didn't like writing for the movies, however"), orchestral pieces, and many pieces for concert band.

"A concert band is similar to an orchestra, but has no strings," he said.

"One of the problems of using limited orchestration is difficulty in producing tonal contrasts. If music can be likened to painting, the limited orchestration is like a limited palette."

"Suppose you don't happen to like blue, however, and your composition is made from 75 different shades of blue. You must find some way to introduce other primary colors."

Zaninelli introduces surprise, color, and other effects through techniques such as "asymmetrical rhythm." This means simply that "you can't tap your foot to it. The rhythm changes from perhaps 3/4 beat to a 2/2, and then back again."

"The effect is one of syncopation."

He used bitonality and dissonance, also. He achieves surprise by using a half-tone leap when the ear expects a full tone or full octave jump.

If the arts can be equated—and Zaninelli thinks they can—then his techniques are similar to an artist using brushes, palette knives, stippling, etc., and to a writer using onomatopoeia, stream of consciousness, symbolism, and other effects.

Ultimate Questions

The ultimate questions that must be put to every serious artist are: What is your viewpoint? What is the philosophical vantage point from which you view life, and so arrange your work? What is your world-view?

"I believe that everyone's existence is a negation of someone else's existence. Since this is true, you must come to grips with the problem and overcome this adversity," he answered.

"I think the way to do this is to stay with your work. By sticking to what you believe when you write, you attack what you think is wrong."

"It boils down to honesty. When I sit down to write a piece of music, I use rules and organization (he classes himself as a conservative composer), yet I let my talents flow spontaneously, to produce a work that is not 'phony.'"

"Accidents don't make art. I intensely dislike the composer who sits with the pencil in his mouth and one hand on the keyboard and when something sounds good, jots it down. Composition can't be a slip of the hand—the composer should hear every note before he transcribes it."

He played tapes of "Puppet Overture," which he says has been performed 300-400 times since it was written in 1961. It is light and surprising, and jounces along like a puppet on a string.

He also played "The World Is So Full," which is 10 or 12 poems from "A Child's Garden of Verses" by Robert Louis Stevenson set to music.

The mood depends on the meaning of the poem. They can almost be considered tone-poems, functioning as an adjunct to the words.

Most important, the music works, and the range of mood from fearful to exuberant balances the composition.

Zaninelli keeps a candle of respect burning at the image of Gian-Carlo Menotti, his teacher.

Most Important

"In music, the teacher-pupil relationship is most important. In one class, the teacher may be the salvation of four students and the destruction of four others. It depends on whether the teacher's view of things corresponds to the student's. Menotti and I had the correct relationship. I learned from him."

Beside Zaninelli, his wife Joanne and daughters, Pia, 7, and Nina, 5, live in the little blue house.

From the indications in his early work, which must now be considered finished, Zaninelli can greatly enrich the field of music, especially concert band music, with his contributions.

It's fairly sure that Pia and Nina live in a musical world—Joanne was first violinist with the Waring organization; Luigi composes music.

Perhaps they can already see through their father's music; perhaps by keeping it pure for them, it sounds pure for people lucky enough to hear it.

DPI Approves Estimates For E-Burg School

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Alterations to Courtland Street elementary school in East Stroudsburg Jointure moved nearer to reality yesterday with approval by the State Department of Public Instruction of cost estimates totaling $283,000 of the project.

Included with the estimates cleared by the department were general construction, $126,500; electrical, $37,000; heating and ventilation, $60,000; plumbing, $9,500 and development of the school site, $5,000.

Structure costs were placed at $238,000. The difference between this sum and $283,000, approved by the department to be financed for all costs of the alterations, covers fixtures and equipment, $14,000; architect's fee, $14,280 and contingent fund.

Financed By Bonds

Cost of the project is being financed locally by issuing municipality authority bonds. Annual rental to be paid by the local school board to cover indebtedness charges and to retire the bonds was estimated by the department at $19,575, based on an interest rate of 3.4 percent for the bonds and a bond period of 20 years.

Capacity of the school was indicated at 410 pupils.

Mating Cats Scratch Policeman

STROUDSBURG — A patrolman was scratched yesterday when Stroudsburg Police battled five cats at the office of Dr. F. W. Shafer, 731 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

Officer Loren Doty suffered scratches of the hand and arm as one of the cats pulled his glove off. Doty was treated by Dr. Shafer and was told to return for additional treatment.

Stroudsburg Police received the cat call at 12:38 p.m. yesterday and were on the scene at 12:45. Officer Mike Chahal and members of the SPCA assisted at the scene.

The five cats were mating underneath the second floor porch, between the roof and floor. Police secured water hose, pouring water on the screaming, howling cats. The cats came out in all directions. Four are still at large.

Reichel: MacArthur Gave All Mortality Can Give

TOBYHANNA — Col. M. J. Reichel, Commanding Officer of Tobyhanna Army Depot, yesterday made the following statement on the death of General of the Army Douglas A. MacArthur.

"The flag of our installation is at half staff out of respect for General Douglas A. MacArthur, along with the nation as a whole, is mourning a great leader. We often hear the statement that no man is indispensable; nevertheless, what would our world be like today if leaders of General MacArthur's caliber had not come forward?"

"In his eulogy to General MacArthur, my installation chaplain quoted from a speech made by the General himself slightly less than two years ago. At a certain point in the speech the General gave his estimate of the soldiers who had fought and died under him. I give you these words because I feel, along with my chaplain, that they most adequately express the nation's estimate and opinion of General of the Army Douglas A. MacArthur:

"His name and his fame are the birthright of every American citizen. In his youth and strength, his love and loyalty, he gave all that mortality can give. He needs no eulogy from me or from any other man. He has written his own history and has written it in red on his enemy's breast."

"But, when I think of his patience under adversity, of his courage under fire, and of his modesty in victory, I am filled with an emotion of admiration I cannot put into words."

"He belongs to history as furnishing one of the greatest examples of successful patriotism; he belongs to posterity as the instructor of future generations in the principles of liberty and freedom; he belongs to the present, to us, by his virtues and by his achievements."

Rarely does a person live beyond 108 or 110 years, though such cases are reported.

$2,410,697 ESSC Budget Awaits Legislative Okay

EAST STROUDSBURG — The 1964-65 budget of East Stroudsburg State College calling for $2,410,697 in expenditures is now in Harrisburg waiting for the approval of the state legislature.

The request is up $172,000 from the 1963-64 budget of $2,238,000.

Summer Bossler Jr., college business manager, said the college is requesting $1,136,618 in state funds to help run the school from July 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965 — the fiscal year under which the college operates.

ESSC students will contribute $1,253,995 in student fees — or 35 per cent of the total budget.

$1,171,969 Payroll

The largest expenditure in the proposed budget is the $1,171,969 scheduled for paying the college's 123 instructors and professors.

Non-instructional personnel will get a total of $401,409. This group includes all administrative and maintenance people, including Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, college president.

A further breakdown of the instructional budget shows the college will spend $109,502 for teaching during its 12-week summer school session; $966,600 for teachers during the regular school term; $31,860 in salary increments, and $30,000 for cooperating teachers in public schools.

Other major budget categories and their breakdown include:

Operating expense, $648,586. This includes food for 1,200 students for 36 weeks, $384,000; lighting, $26,000; coal, $35,000; sewerage — paid to the Borough.

ough of East Stroudsburg, $10,000; postage, $6,000; printing, $11,000; IBM computer rentals, $8,000.

Also housekeeping supplies for 1,115 resident students, $10,000; office supplies, $9,333; educational, recreational and religious supplies — including library books, $63,000; maintenance materials, $12,000.

General equipment category is slated for $60,000. This includes educational supplies.

Expanded Program

The college will spend $87,461 on its expanded educational program during the coming fiscal year. Included are the graduate program, $15,000. Only $20,000 of this total will be supplied by the state. Graduate student fees will supply the remaining money.

Bossler said the college will also collect $3 per week from every resident student to pay for campus building, taking place. From this source, $135,000 will be realized this year and go toward reducing the college building debt.

While noting the obvious economic effect 123 teachers earning $1,171,969 will have on the community, Bossler said each of the college's 1,800 students spends an average of $5 per week on off campus activities.

These figures indicate ESSC students pump $338,400 into the local economy each year.

The peculiar aspect of the state-owned college budget — which is in the approval stage for nearly a year — is that the college does not actually receive any money from its budget requests. The college receives monetary credits, which can only be spent through Harrisburg.

Item budget was sent to the Department of Public Instruction. The DPI can approve the amount at this time or it can recommend cutbacks.

The budget then goes to the operations and maintenance section of the legislature, where it can again be either approved or slashed. The legislature is considering the ESSC budget at the present time.

Returns To DPI

The legislature — approved budget is then sent back to the DPI for further approval or cutbacks. It then goes to the Budget Bureau in the Office of Administration. At this point, Bossler explained, budget reserves are created from each of the 14 state-owned college budgets.

This reserve money would be used in the case of an emergency at any of the 14 colleges.

After this is done, ESSC will be sent a lump sum figure it may use during the 1964-65 fiscal year. The figure is usually less than the college requested, according to Bossler.

At this point the college must re-budget and be ready for the June 30 deadline. The re-budgeted items must also be sent to the DPI and Budget Bureau of approval.

State control over the ESSC budget does not stop here, according to Bossler.

3 Allotment Periods

The fiscal year is divided into three allotment periods and all expenditures requested during any of these periods must be approved by the DPI and Budget Bureau.

The request, within any period, can be approved or cut Bossler said.

If cuts are made at this point, Bossler said he is obliged to transfer funds within major categories to keep the college operation on an even keel. He cannot transfer credits from one major category to another.

If the allotments are not fully committed at the end of the allotment periods credits can be carried over. However, if all allotted money is not spent by June 30 of any year it is lost, the business manager said.

Council, A&P Confer On Traffic

STROUDSBURG — Officials of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. met with the Stroudsburg Borough Council recently at Second and McConnell Streets to discuss the traffic situation. The A&P is building a new store at that location.

Council will hold a special meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the municipal building to discuss the situation.

The new store will have parking facilities for 250 cars and A&P officials fear the intersection might become congested with traffic after the store is in operation.

Robert Weichel, council president, said, "They pointed out problems that might come up. We hope to be able to come up with some ideas that will alleviate any problems that might come up." The A&P furnished Weichel with a set of plans for the project.

Meeting with council were Mayor Joseph Small and Joseph Rooney and Frank Treney from the A&P office in Scranton.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

On an international flight, a tourist passenger is permitted 44 pounds of luggage. When I leave for Yugoslavia on Monday, my luggage will include five pounds of a paper back edition of "Black Lamb and Grey Falcon"; one pound of travel literature; one pound of a ship construction kit; and 15 pounds of ecclesiastical incense!

The book is my own idea. The construction kit is a request from my sister. So is the incense, although 15 pounds is going to come as a shock. She had written that she had been wanting to tour the Byzantine monasteries of Old Serbia, and since they had a hard time getting incense, the gift of a couple of packages would "make the people in the mountain love us."

As a Presbyterian, I am no authority on church incense but I'm always willing to learn, so I've been going about asking questions about the proper kind and where could you get it. Among the people I asked was Ernest H. Wyckoff who promised to investigate.

He did, and came home proudly bearing 15 one-pound tins of church incense. It looks a little like granules in a mixture of straw and probably burns very satisfactorily when swung in a Byzantine censer. If it ever gets that far.

One problem, of course, is that it doesn't allow me much poundage for clothes to wear for three weeks. But then maybe I won't need clothes. Not if I'm detained for my entire stay in a Yugoslavian customs prison.

Even I will admit that 15 pounds of ecclesiastical incense is not a reasonable amount for a woman tourist to carry. A custom inspector is bound to question either my sanity or the contents of those tins, which could be narcotics, gunpowder or a hiding place for diamonds.

But even you will have to admit that the journey starts out with some interesting possibilities. Maybe the columns I send home won't equal "Oil for the Lamps of China" as literature, but for suspense I can't wait for the next chapter of "Incense for the Monasteries of Yugoslavia."

You'll have to wait until about a week from Monday though.

TAILOR'S HAM, spanker and point presser are among the esoteric tailoring tricks which were learned by three adult home economics groups who have completed a course in tailoring in the county. From the Canadensis group, Mrs. Paul Reisenwitz demonstrates pressing techniques on a jacket she made for her husband, and Mrs. Richard Lumsden free-hand sewing as their instructor, Miss Margaret MacLaren stands proudly by.

Local Women Qualify As Own Couturier Designers

Canadensis — At least 39 women will be wearing custom-tailored $150 suits this Spring, each hand-fitted, hand-finished, and worthy to wear the designer's label.

Since the designers are also the wearers, the actual cost of the suits range from $19.75 to $25.

The women were enrolled in one of the three classes in tailoring conducted by Miss Margaret MacLaren, home economics extension representative.

Enrollment in the courses was limited to women who had already completed basic and advanced sewing courses. Who, in other words, could already make bound buttonholes on their own.

At the final meeting of the five day-long sessions held at the Canadensis Methodist Church cottage, members of the Canadensis group demonstrated tailoring tricks.

The secret of fine tailoring lies primarily in pressing techniques, Miss MacLaren pointed out. For this, the members of the classes needed special equipment with such esoteric names as "tailor's ham," "spanker," and "point presser," which can be seen in the picture above.

For collars, lapels, cuffs and corners, a steam iron is used lightly for the moisture. With finger grips which the husbands made for their wives and a tailor's ham, (a ham-shaped pad stuffed with sawdust which the women made for themselves), the dampened scene is pounded, with considerable gusto.

Sunday Forum On Religion At Temple Israel

Stroudsburg — The Sunday Forums, sponsored by the Brotherhood of the Temple Israel, will continue this Sunday night at 8 in the Temple when William Kenawell of the East Stroudsburg State College faculty, will discuss the question: "Are Traditional Religious Concepts Still Valid to the 20th Century Educated Man?"

Mrs. Ira Nagler, adult education chairman, announced plans for the forum at this week's meeting of the sisterhood. Refreshments will follow the discussion.

Mrs. Gerald Brodsky presided at the meeting. Announcement was made of the Oleg Shab-bath, celebrating Israel's 16th anniversary of independence, to be held Friday night, April 17. Rabbi Bernhard Presler and Cantor Abraham J. Denburg of Baltimore, Md., will conduct the services which are being sponsored by the Sisterhood, Hadassah and B'Nai B'rith.

A branch conference, celebrating its 25th anniversary will be held in Pottstown on April 14 and 15. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Henry Reader, league representative.

A bake sale will be held Friday, April 24 in the East Stroudsburg National Bank with Mrs. Mary Katz and Mrs. Jules Steinberg as chairmen. Mrs. Ben Wilkins urged members to collect rummage for the sale to be held May 4-8.

"The 49th Cousin" will be presented as a "package deal" on Saturday, April 25 at the Temple.

Featured speaker at the meeting was Maurice Fleisher who gave a description of the life of an East European, considered one of the "36 Just". Hostesses were Mrs. Leo Feinsilber, Mrs. Alan Ginsburg, Mrs. Ida Jolley and Mrs. Kurt Wimer.

There is nothing like being prepared. That's why I was thankful this past Sunday that I had taken my overnight case along on the bus trip to Washington, rather than stopping enroute home at Columbia to pick it up. Half way to Harrisburg, Margaret Courtright suddenly wailed, "Madalyn... just look at your coat. I'm dreadfully sorry." Her white mohair Spring coat, in which she looked perfectly beautiful, had shed all over my old navy one. I looked like Frosty the Snowman, and though Nellie Van Vliet rubbed away at me with a woolen scarf only a fragment of the lint came off.

Then I remembered! In my overnight case was a tiny natural bristle hair brush that our Cosmetic Department had sold for 1.00. I had never used it. And it proved worth its weight in gold. The white threads disappeared like magic. Sooo, I've checked and discovered that we still sell those brushes, in plastic cases, for just a dollar. I recommend them for clothing as well as for one's hair. Buy one today for your purse and maybe another for your traveling case. I'm sure you'll be happy I mentioned it!

Frequently I hear the complaint that it is difficult for a Catholic to purchase a suitable prayer plaque for the home, outside of a religious store. However, as I browsed in the International Gift Center the other noon hour, I was attracted to a very interesting brass replica of the Lord's Prayer. At the top are the famous Praying Hands by Durer. The price is 1.25—and this is the Catholic version of the prayer... the same as the Protestant prayer except that it omits the closing lines, "for Thine is the power, and the glory, forever and ever."

There is so very much of interest in our lovely gift department! Perhaps the most impressive addition to our wares is the Italian pottery, vivid in color, and so marvelously adaptable to our American way of living. There are three enormous vases with bold floral design. These are 25.00. At 10.50 there are umbrella stands—cylinders of white, with sprays of flowers. There are hand-painted basin and pitcher sets (such as Great Grandmother had in china or porcelain) of the same bright pottery, at 15.00. And at 10.00 there are adorable relish dishes contoured to fit a Lazy Susan of durable light gray plastic. I am mad for everything Italian from food to fashions and decor. I am sure if I could not be an American, I'd head for Florence, or Rome, or some snug little Italian village where I could grow happily fat on pasta.

A number of people had mentioned to me the splendor of a prayer written by the late General MacArthur when his son was tiny and he himself was engaged in one of the greatest military campaigns of his career. I had not seen it, but was pleasantly surprised when a friend brought it to my home the other evening. I read it on Wednesday morning's radio program, and in no time had five requests for copies. Because it is rather long, I have asked Donna Warner to multilith twenty-five copies, which I will gladly mail to anyone who wishes them. It is a prayer all parents can understand... and all of us can be grateful that one wonderful man had the God-given ability to put our mutual thought into words.

By the way... the 7.50 price advertised for our Wyckoff Travel Bureau excursion to the World Fair on Saturday, May 9th DOES INCLUDE ADMISSION TO THE FAIR. Edna Brockman asked me to clarify this. Any more questions? Call our Travel Bureau today.

A Trio Of Favorite Cakes To Rate A Mother An A In Housewifery

Linda Fipher
Daily Record Home Economist
Stroudsburg — Pat Shoemaker called me a few weeks ago to ask me if I had my sister-in-law's (Doris Barry's) recipe for chocolate cake. She told me that she had been baking it for years and years and it was still her favorite. She often doubles the recipe and bakes cupcakes so that she will have plenty in the freezer for daughter, Beth's, school lunches. Beth's friends like them, too!

I've been doubling the recipe this winter, too, to make a layer cake, and this is still Bill's favorite. I wrote it for a white frosting. I've tried a lot of recipes during the last few months as I've had to make good my promise to Billy of baking him a chocolate cake for every hundred he made in his weekly spelling tests.

It proved a good incentive but now I have to resist the urge to groan every time he brings home an A paper. Even his teacher, Mrs. Harvey, marked "Another cake" on his latest paper. At the moment I'm three cakes behind and I really should send a cake to Mrs. Harvey so that she knows Billy is getting paid off! If you like a black, moist chocolate cake, you'll like this one. I've given you the recipe before for square pan size, but this is doubled for layer cake (or make cupcakes as Pat does).

Doris' Chocolate Cake
2 cups sugar
2 3 cups melted shortening
4 squares chocolate melted in 1 cup water
1/2 cup milk
2 cups all purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put all ingredients in bowl and beat until smooth. Pour batter into two greased 8-inch layer pans and bake in a 350 oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

While Pat and I were talking she told me about another of her favorite cakes that she whips up in a hurry. It's a pound cake with lots of eggs that act as the leavening agent so that no baking powder or soda is needed.

Pat's Pound Cake
2 sticks margarine, softened (1 cup)
1 2/3 cups sugar
6 eggs
1 whole lemon (pulp, grated rind, and squeezed juice)
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

Cream softened margarine and sugar together. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each addition. Stir in pulp, rind, and juice of lemon and the almond extract. Add flour sifted with salt and mix thoroughly. Pour into a tube pan which has been lined with waxed paper. Bake in a 325 oven for 45 to 55 minutes. When cooled, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

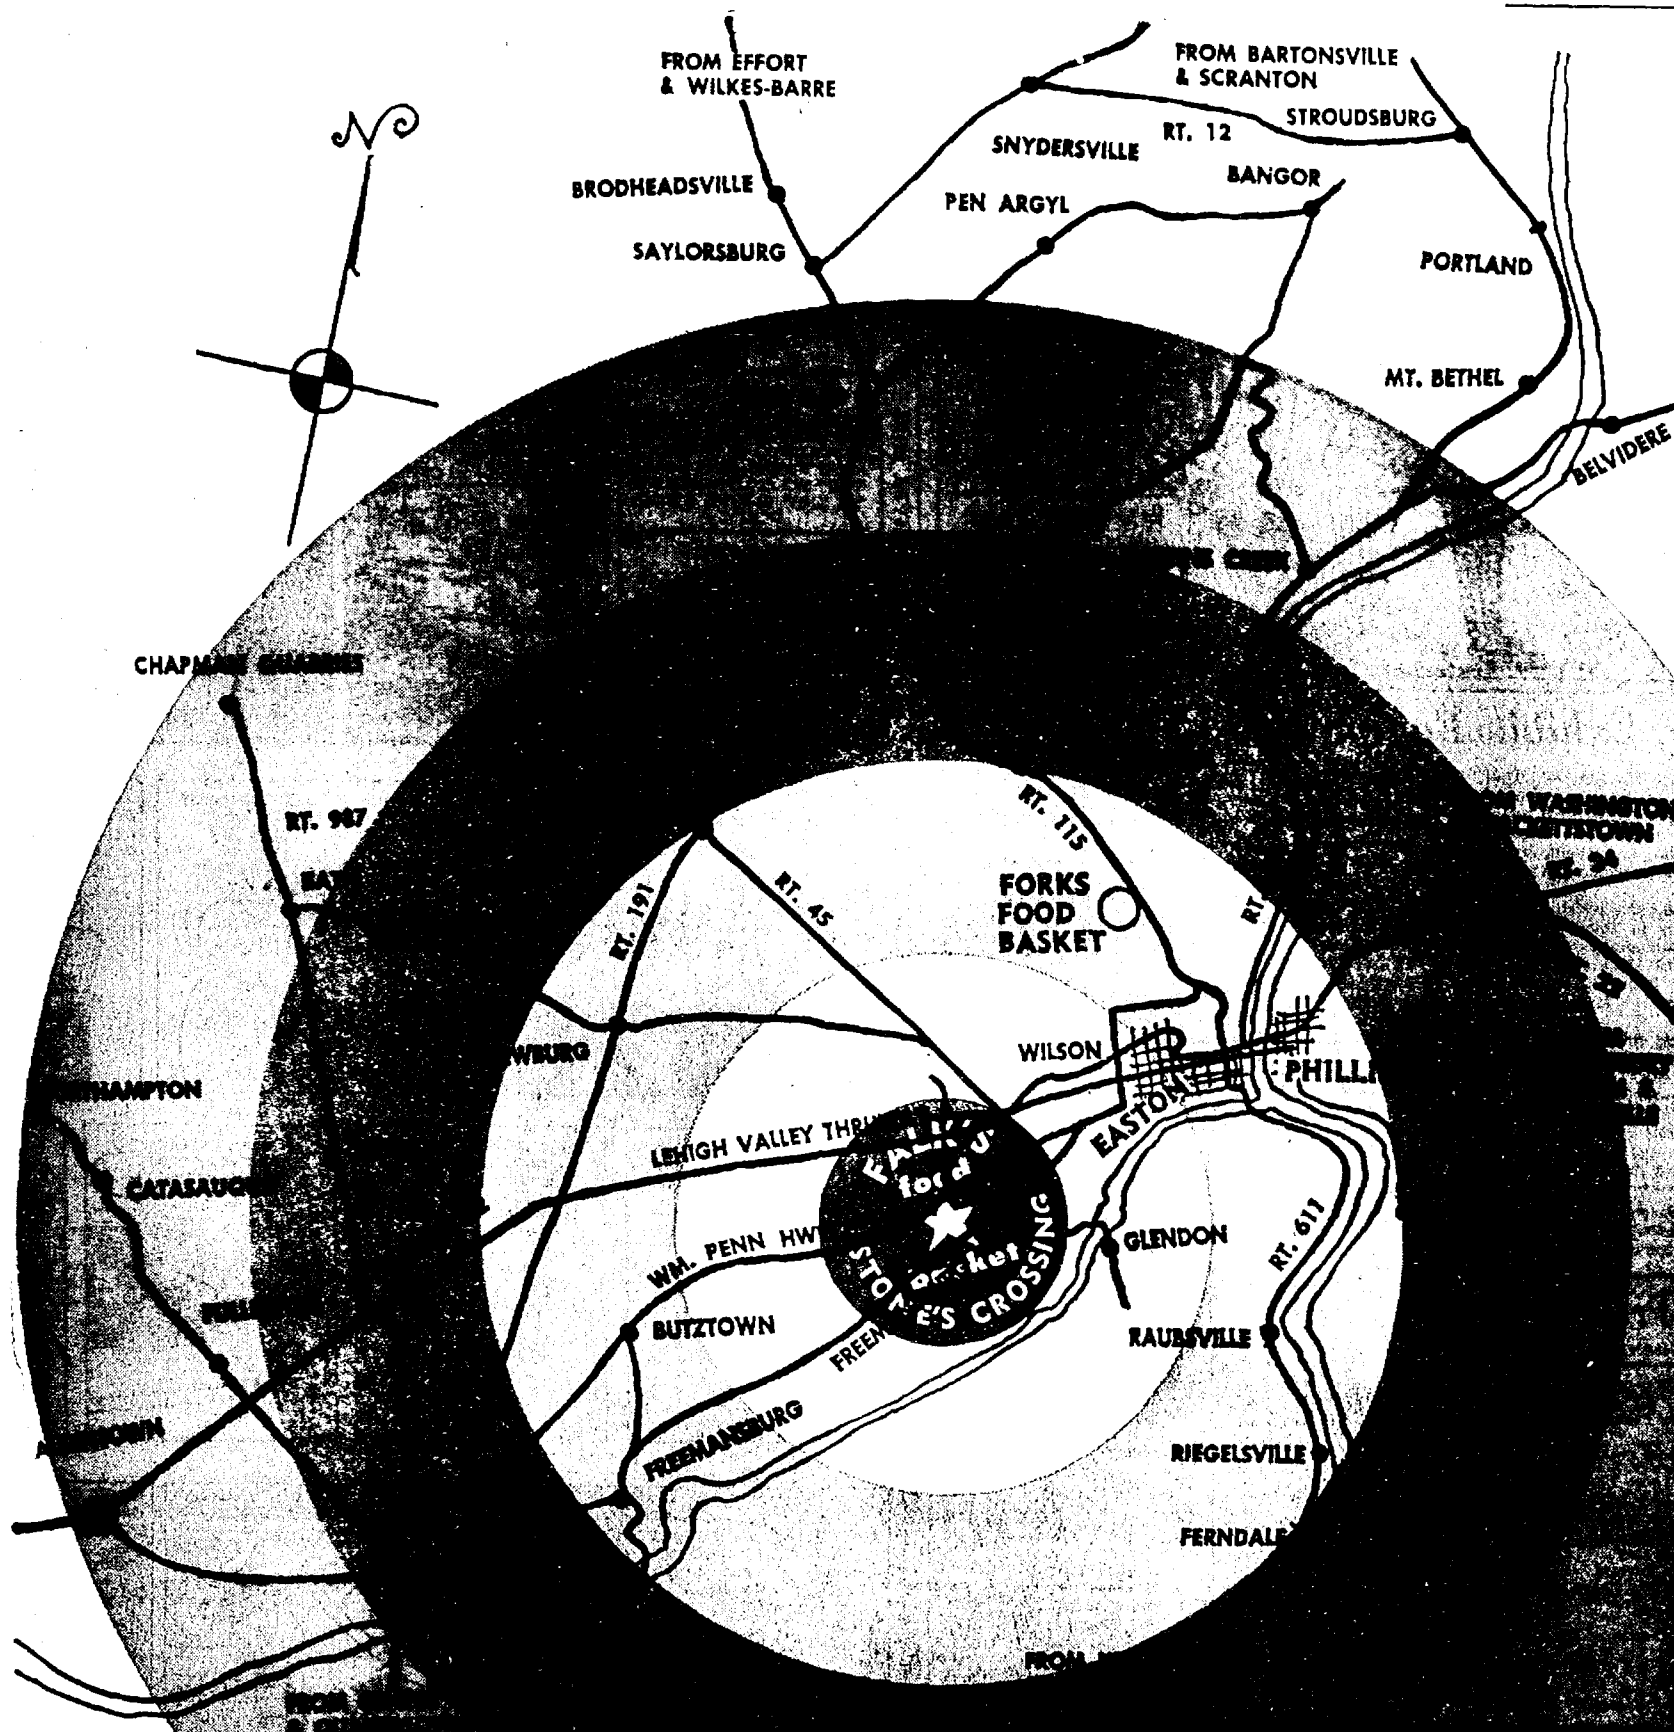

In the picture you see a cake that cannot be whipped up in a hurry. This is for those of you who like to try new recipes and have the time to spend in the kitchen.

Poppy seeds, you know, are the seeds that are on many rolls. I have you ever tried them in a cake? If you like these nut flavored seeds and you are a lover of cheese cake as I am, you won't mind going to the trouble of making this luscious dessert for that special occasion when you want something elegant.

Poppy Seed Cheese Cake
1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons poppy seed
6 packages (3 oz. each) soft cream cheese
6 large eggs, separated
1 cup sour cream

1 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
confectioners' sugar, optional
Mix graham cracker crumbs with cinnamon and sprinkle over bottom and sides of a 9-inch spring form pan. Set aside. Combine 1/2 cup of the sugar with flour and poppy seed. Add cream cheese and beat until the mixture is fluffy and smooth. Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Blend with the cream mixture. Stir in sour cream and pure vanilla extract.

Add salt to egg whites and beat until they are foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until they stand in soft, stiff peaks. Gradually beat in the remaining 1/2 cup sugar and fold into the mixture. Turn into the prepared spring form pan. Place on a rack in a larger pan. Pour in hot water, having it come to the top of the rack, yet not touching the cheese cake pan. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325) 1 1/2 hours or until cake is firm in the center. Turn off heat and let cake cool in the oven 1 hour. Remove from oven. Loosen the cake from the sides of the pan with a spatula, but do not remove the pan side until ready to serve. Serve, with side removed on a cake plate. Dust with confectioners' sugar, if desired.

Bangor Board Adopts Pay Schedule

MT. BETHEL — A new salary schedule for all teachers was adopted by the Bangor Joint School Board this week. However, the board returned to committee a pay schedule of administrative officials.

Adopted was a salary schedule calling for a starting salary of $4,700 per year for teachers with a standard and bachelor's degree and a starting salary for teachers with a master's degree at $4,900.

It also provided that teachers in service have the immediate benefit of salary differential of $600 should they hold the higher degree of masters. Teachers with a standard certificate will have a maximum of $6,800; bachelors of $7,100 and masters of $7,900, the latter top figures to be attained after 31 years of service.

The board returned to committee the question of salaries for supt. of schools; junior and senior high school principals; guidance director; and junior high guidance director.

It did however approve an increase in the salaries of administrative clerks by $150 and all other clerks by $100. The salaries for custodial and maintenance staff were also returned to committee for re-study.

Dr. S. William Ricker, supt. of schools reported on the matter of the state approval of the reorganization of the local seven districts. He noted the question was being resolved this week in Harrisburg by the State Board of Education.

School Census
In line with the school reorganization all districts will be taking a school or population census. Enumerators will be named by the districts and the fees to be paid will be reviewed by the finance and education committee. This census will be made prior to the middle of June.

It was announced that the local district will continue with its annual Baccalaureate services to be held this June for the senior class since no ruling to the contrary has been received from Harrisburg.

The resignation of Mrs. Marie Lehrer as girls basketball coach was accepted with regret. Mrs. Lehrer will continue however as girls instructor in physical education in the junior high school.

Permission was given for 12 boys of the high school track team to participate in the Emory Relays in Bethlehem on May 2 and the track squad was increased to 36 participants. Approval was also given for the

Dr. Appel To Evaluate Albright

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Middle States Association of Colleges has appointed Dr. John Appel of East Stroudsburg State College to an experimental evaluation team that will assemble at Albright College in Reading on April 12 through 15.

Dr. Winton Tolles, chairman of the team is also a consultant to East Stroudsburg State College for liberal arts program development.

Dr. Appel has been given the special assignment of integrating sub-committee study of the Albright College liberal arts program and to serve on the evaluation of social science work.

According to F. Taylor Jones, the executive secretary of the Middle States Association, the purpose of the special evaluation is to enable faculty and staff members of many institutions to study another college's program in depth.

Bonsor Completes Graduate Work

EASTON — Eugene E. Bonsor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Bonsor of Pocono Pines has completed his postgraduate work in higher accounting in the Evening Sessions of the Churchman Business College, Easton.

He has been awarded his diploma for the Advanced Accounting course.

Bonsor graduated from the Churchman Business College in November, 1961, and accepted a position in the accounting department of the New Jersey Power and Light Company, Phillipsburg, N.J.

Bonsor began his post-graduate studies in February, 1962, and completed his work on April 6, 1964. He is still in the employ of the New Jersey Power and Light Company Company.

Alpha Portland Net Profit Up

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Alpha Portland Cement Co. Friday reported 1963 net income of $2,174,000 equal to $1.23 per share compared with $3,581,000 and $1.98 a year ago. Revenues for the past year were listed as $39,709,000 compared with $43,199,000 in 1962.

1964-65 varsity, junior varsity and ninth grade football schedules; the junior and varsity boys basketball schedule; the junior high basketball schedule and the varsity girls basketball schedule.

It was also announced that plans for the All Sports banquet will be made by a committee composed of Albert Ronca, Marvin DePamphillis and Bernard Reimer. Mrs. Charlotte Hough was also named to head the board committee for the post senior banquet party to be held at the Blue Valley Farm Show Building on May 22.

Letters From Architects
It was noted by Merle W. Mabius, secretary, that he has received the proper letters from the architect explaining the plans for the construction of athletic fields at the senior high as well as a garage addition calling for an expenditure of $124,000. Some $35,000 of this cost is currently on hand in the residue from the construction of the present high school building.

Upon the recommendation of the buildings and grounds committee the board accepted the bid of Buzzard Electric Company to re-wire the vo-ag shop at the junior high at a cost of $940.

East Bangor PTA was granted the use of the school grounds on June 5 and the committee was authorized to install new walks and curbs at 428

Market Street in front of the Administration Building. The request of the State Belt De-Molay for the junior high gym during May was also granted.

The use of the Washington School Building in June for the Blue Valley PTA was granted as well as the athletic field at that school to softball teams run by the community. The Mt. Bethel Fire Company was also granted use of the senior high auditorium provided it does not interfere with the scheduled events at the end of the school year.

Plans were also approved to send members of the custodial staff to a work shop at Nazareth on June 22 and 23.

Approval was also given for the orientation day of sixth grade pupils in junior high and ninth grade pupils at senior high on May 18.

Mrs. Anna Sheesley was given permission to attend a librarians conference at Clarion, Pennsylvania, on April 24 and 25. The following mathematics teachers were granted permission to attend a meeting at Williamsport on May 2; Paul R. LaBar, James Drury and Rocco Drago. Permission was also granted to Earl Lutz to attend a conference at Pennsburg on May 10; Miss Helen Roche to attend conferences in Washington, D.C., on April 17 and 18 and at Towanda, Pa., on April 8, 9 and 10.

Mrs. Virginia Wynne was also permitted to take 60 students to Law Day at Easton Court-house on the proper day. Elementary trips approved for Columbus sixth graders to Philadelphia; Columbus fifth graders to New York City; East Bangor sixth graders to Philadelphia and Washington sixth graders to Philadelphia.

Gettysburg Bound

Permission was granted for A. M. Williams to take 235 ninth grade students to Gettysburg on May 6, and it was noted that Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College had consented to be the commencement speaker.

Dr. Ricker was also granted permission to attend a conference at Buck Hill Falls on April 26, 27 and 28. The board also approved that efforts be made to secure teachers to be trained to operate the new school planetarium.

Upon the recommendation of the transportation committee a new set of regulations relative to pupils driving to the senior high school will be prepared by Solicitor Edmund Turtzo, superintendent Dr. Ricker and Secretary Mabius. Mileage reimbursement for the balance of the current year was set at 7 cents.

Bills totalling $156,713.95 were approved for payment and Albert Ronca, treasurer, reported a balance of $141,212.38 in the general fund.

Irwin Soloist Tonight At Stroud Union Concert

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County's own "Music Man", Jack Irwin, will be the guest soloist at the Stroud Union High School choral concert Saturday night, April 11, at 8:00 p.m., in the high school auditorium.

A recent resident of this area, Jack was born, raised and educated in the south, having earned degrees at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. — none in the field of music. However, he has been singing in public since childhood, even to earning a scholarship with the Apollo Boys Choir of Birmingham, Ala.

As a winner of an Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout show he had his first chances for Broadway work, and appeared in many of the better known successes: "Plain and Fancy", "Kiss Me, Kate", "Most Happy Fella", "Music Man," "Camelot", and "Best Foot Forward". He has studied acting at several schools and has performed with many summer stock companies. This, along with night club work, TV (including many commercials), and recordings, has all contributed to the versatility of Irwin.

With Robert Currier, music director of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, as accompanist, Irwin's program will include "Trouble", from "Music Man" by Meredith Wilson; "Zaza, Piccola, Zingara", from "Zaza", an operatic aria by Leoncavallo; the hillbilly novelty, "Mountain Dew"; Ernest Charles' art song, "When I Have Sung My Songs to You"; and the lovely gospel hymn, "How Great Thou Art".

With the high school chorus as background, Irwin will sing Fay Foster's dramatic "My Journey's End". And during the group of Oscar winning tunes to be done by the Mountaintain-Alres, Jack will sing "Gigi", from the movie of the same name, by Lerner and Loewe.

Cadets Conduct Sunday Services

EAST STROUDSBURG — A brigade of eight Cadets from The Salvation Army School for Officers in New York City will conduct the services at the Local Citadel Sunday.

The regular schedule of services will prevail with the Cadets leading the services and bringing the messages.

This is part of their training course. These young men are in their second year of training and will be commissioned as lieutenants and assigned to Corps throughout the Territory, in June.

In addition to the regular schedule, the Cadets will hold a service at the County Jail Sunday afternoon.

Depressing sight, isn't it? And what is it we say when something old, familiar, once-cherished, once-useful has succumbed to the ravages of time?

It served its purpose!

Could all the churches in our town someday look like this?

They could!

Maybe they will...

if they have served their purpose...

if we don't need them anymore!

Even if you haven't been getting to church of late, I think you'll protest that we DO need our churches. We need the truth they teach — the faith they instill — the hope they inspire — the God-given strength with which they undergird our life.

This is the very point: We ALL need our churches.

And to bring ALL of us to realize and fulfill our need...

That is their purpose!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SQUARING OFF for today's fourth annual Red-Black football game at East Stroudsburg State College are opposing quarterbacks Glen Ray (left) and Carl Rice, the two top candidates for the QB role of the 1964 Warrior eleven. Game marks climax of ESSC's spring practice. Kickoff time is 12:30 p.m.

Warriors Lose 2 Games To Ithaca And Cornell

ITHACA, N. Y. — The baseball Warriors of East Stroudsburg State College yesterday were greeted in rude fashion by a pair of upstate New York clubs as ESSC was trimmed by Ithaca, 10-3 and by Cornell, 2-1.

Errors proved the downfall for the Warriors in the first game against Ithaca as the home club tallied five runs in the second while ESSC was committing three of its six

Small Crowd For Lane-Ortiz Fight

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Unless there's a last minute upset in ticket sales, Carlos Ortiz won't get quite the welcome from the home folks that he hoped for when he defends his lightweight title against the No. 1 challenger, Kenny Lane on Saturday night.

Promoter Bob Leith has reduced his estimates in the past few days and now figures that 20,000 fans will pay about $150,000 to see Ortiz battle the Muskegon, Mich., southpaw over 15 rounds at Hiram Bithorn Stadium.

A week ago Leith predicted 22,000 and $180,000 but ticket sales outside of San Juan haven't been as good as expected. Ortiz has been guaranteed $52,500 for the fight and Lane $12,500.

Lane figures this as the opportunity he has been seeking nearly two years. As No. 1 challenger, he has been looking for a title shot ever since Ortiz took the crown from Joe Brown in 1962.

Meanwhile Ortiz took on Teruo Kosaka in Tokyo, Cuban Doug Vaillant in San Juan and Flash Elorde in Manila. None of those fights went the full 15 rounds. Ortiz, who recently moved back to Puerto Rico

4-Under-Par Provides Commanding 4-Stroke Lead

Palmer Birdies Way Into Masters Lead

By WILL GRIMSEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — While Arnie's Army spurred him on by land and air, charged-up Arnold Palmer reeled off birdies on four of the last six holes Friday for a four-under-par 68 which sent him into a commanding four-stroke lead after 36 holes in the Masters Golf Tournament.

Added to his first round 69, the birdie march over Augusta National's sun-soaked 6,580 yards gave the Latrobe, Pa., links idol a total of 137, seven under par, and made him an overwhelming favorite to capture an unprecedented fourth Masters crown.

He also was in position—by duplicating his efforts of the first two days of this spring spectacle—to tie the record of 274 set by Ben Hogan in 1953. Many said it might never be done.

Ends Traffic Jam
Palmer, hitting his irons to the greens like rifle shots and putting for birdies on 16 of the 18 holes, lunged out of a five-way traffic jam for first place and soared four shots ahead of his closest pursuer, Gary Player, the little Johannesburg precisionist in perennial black garb, had to sink a 25-foot putt on the final hole for a 72 and 141. The rain-nunching South African won here in 1961, the first and only foreigner to do it, and lost in a playoff to Palmer in 1962.

Another stroke farther back, five behind Palmer, were slender Don January of Dallas and former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., with identical 70-72-142 scores and almost identical grief.

Triple Bogey
January dumped two tee shots in the water on the 155-yard peninsula hole 12th hole and had to chip in from off the green for a triple bogey 6.

Littler came to the final hole four under par for the tournament, hit his tee shot into a treacherous lie, hooked his approach into the crowd, pitched on and three-putted for a double bogey 6.

Similar miseries plagued the 24-year-old defending champion Jack Nicklaus, the player designated to succeed Palmer as the No. 1 man in professional golf. The 210-pound husky from Columbus, Ohio, bogied three of the last seven holes for a 73 which put him at 144. He has seven big shots to make up on Palmer in the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday, and that's a man-sized order.

The defending champion was bracketed with eight other pros and amateur Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., the even par figure of 144 and there were seven players between him and the top.

Conditions Perfect
Playing conditions were perfect—sunny and temperature in the 70s—and Palmer's enthusiastic supporters were out in large and demonstrative numbers among the gallery of 30,000.

On the ground, they whooped and hollered with every good Palmer shot—which was often—and overhead a two-motored plane buzzed around, trailing a banner reading, "Go, Arnie, go."

He did.

The three other players tied with Palmer and Player for the first round lead all collapsed. Bob Goalby and little known club pro Davis Love Jr., each had 75 and 144. Kel Nagle, the 43-year-old Australian, skied to a 77 for 152.

Ben Hogan's hopes for a comeback faded with a 77 for 148 and old Sam Snead added a 73 for 152.

Sam Huff Traded To 'Skins

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Bill McPeak completed his second major deal within 10 days Friday, obtaining Sam Huff from the New York Giants to bolster shaky Washington Redskins linebacking.

The Giants, trying to plug two holes in the defensive line that helped win three straight Eastern Division titles in the National Football League, in exchange received defensive end Andy Stynchula, a 250-pound, four-year veteran.

George Seals, a rookie defensive lineman from the University of Missouri, came along with Huff to the Redskins. The Giants also received halfback Dick James, who led the NFL in punt returns last fall, and a No. 5 draft choice next fall.

Key Men
But Huff and Stynchula were the key men in the deal.

Just as 10 days ago when he traded quarterback Norman Snead for quarterback Sonny Jurgensen of Philadelphia, McPeak placed major emphasis in getting a solid veteran who can help produce a winning team next fall.

The Redskins coach has given a "win-or-else" edict last fall when his contract was renewed for the fourth year. Washington was 3-11 last fall and hasn't had a winning season since 1955.

A seven-year man, the 29-year old Huff has been a key man in the giant defense, one of the best in the league.

"Sure Spot"
McPeak said linebacking was a "sure spot" last fall, and he feels it will be greatly improved with the acquisition of Huff and Jimmy Carr.

Carr, a defensive back obtained from Philadelphia along with Jurgensen, will be converted into a linebacker.

In New York, Giant Coach Alie Sherman said, "we felt we had to strengthen both our defensive line and our offensive backfield, and the price came high."

Pastrano TKO's Peralta In 6th

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lightweight champion Willie Pastrano opened a wide cut over Gregorio Peralta's left eye and retained his title on a six-round technical knockout of their scheduled 15-round bout Friday night.

The cut was inflicted in the fourth round and the champion worked it over in the fifth.

"I knew it was just a matter of time after that cut came up," Pastrano said after the fight. "That blind gave me a good target. All I had to do was pour it in there."

Pius X Opener Marked By Tie

PEN ARGYL — The Royals of Pius X yesterday opened their season in a 4-4 stalemate against Our Lady of the Lake School of Sparta, N. J.

Coach Vince Shemanski's nine took a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning on base hits by Frank Godino and Steve Zegalia.

Jim Deitz led off with a walk and Godino blasted a two-bagger to score the game's first run. Godino scored on a run-producing single by Zegalia.

But Our Lady of the Lake peeked away with single markers in the second and fourth frames to knot the count.

In the sixth the Royals again took a two-run lead, 4-2, when Bill Curcio and Antonelli singled and Len Litz tallied both runners with another base knock.

But two base hits and an error in the seventh allowed the visitors to tie the score.

The game was called after eight innings because of darkness.

Piersall Signs With Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels signed outfielder Jim Piersall and catcher Hank Foiles Friday.

Both were made free agents by the Angels after the 1963 season but invited to try out with the club this spring. Piersall, 34, batted .233 in 89 games last season and drove in 19 runs in 270 at-bats. Foiles, also 34, hit .207 in 42 games and had 10 RBIs in 87 at-bats.

ES State Tennis Team Seeks 2nd

EAST STROUDSBURG — The tennis team of East Stroudsburg State College seeks its second straight triumph in as many matches today when the Warrior squad meets another Jersey opponent at Trenton.

The lads of Coach Charles Wolbers Wednesday opened their season on a successful note at home against Montclair which was able to take only one set against ESSC.

Fine Performances
Other fine performances were turned in by Dick Baker, a freshman from Williamsport; Bud Ruhl, a senior from Craydon; Herb Buecher, a sophomore from Maplewood; and Dennis Kimmel of Lemoyne.

Werner Graf, a junior from Stroudsburg, disposed of veteran Montclair player Harold Fishbein, 6-1, 6-2 in his first varsity start.

Although five players have been lost to this year's squad through graduation, Wolbers says "this year's squad may have better balance."

Won 10 Straight
Last year, the team won 10 straight following an opening setback.

The remainder of the schedule is:

April 18 — Shippensburg (H).
April 22 — Kings College (A).
April 25 — Bloomsburg (A).
April 29 — Kutztown (H).
May 2 — West Chester (A).
May 5 — Bloomsburg (H).
May 6 — Millersville (A).
May 11 — Kutztown (A).

Celtics Favored By Hoop Experts

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics will win their sixth straight National Basketball Association championship in a maximum of six games say a couple of experts.

"I don't think either team in the Western Division playoff can take these Celtics, they're just too great," says coach Jack McMahon of Cincinnati. Boston beat his Royals 109-95 Thursday night for its eighth crown. The Celtics took the series four games to one.

"It looks like Boston is six—at tops—whether San Francisco or St. Louis is the opponent," McMahon said. "If the Celtics continue to play the way they did against us and Bill Russell doesn't get hurt, they'll breeze in the playoff final."

"Boston In Five"
"I figure Boston in five," states Bob Cousy, whose retirement a year ago presented an added hurdle for the Celtics to clear. Cousy had correctly predicted Boston over Cincinnati in five games.

Badges A Fad In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Many members of golfer Arnold Palmer's huge gallery proudly wear big white buttons with "Arnie's Army" blazoned on them in red.

During Friday's round, there were also some badges proclaiming loyalty to Palmer's playing partner, the colorful and long-driving Chi Chii Rodriguez of Puerto Rico.

The Rodriguez badges read: "Chi Chi Bandidos."

Floyd Patterson To Sell Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight boxing champion, said Friday night he has put up for sale his $140,000 home in Yonkers, N.Y. He emphasized that he is selling for "personal reasons" and not because of racial prejudice in the neighborhood.

Patterson purchased the 11-room house on a hilltop in the fashionable Beach Hills section of Yonkers three years ago.

County Commissioners Busy Trio During First 3 Months In Office

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — If doing many things is a criterion for success in a job, the three Monroe County commissioners must be eminently successful.

According to people connected with the commissioners, few such flurries of activity have been seen around the courthouse for many years.

The county political leaders—chairman Stanley Rader, Stuart Pipher, and John Price—have been gunning their motors since they took office at the first of the year.

Even a partial listing of the commissioners' activities must fall into categories. Fortunately, the commissioners have set up these categories themselves.

3-Way Classification

They classify their doings into "things we've been saddled with," "new projects," and "investigations requiring legwork."

It boils down to a lot of work and a lot of time. "It's just about a full-time job, five days a week," said acting chairman Price.

Rader is at home for possibly a month with a pinched shoulder nerve. Even that doesn't stop him, though, for the minutes of meetings are sent to him and he keeps in touch by phone.

How do the commissioners have time to get all their projects into the fire?

"We can do much more business at our regular meetings now that we have hired a welfare investigator," said Pipher.

He said that before H. Ray Saunders was hired as surplus food administrator and investigator, all the people asking for aid would come to the commissioners.

"It took up a lot of time," Pipher said, "and really, the commissioners cannot look into every case to check its need. We've saved the county a pile of money since we've been investigating each welfare hand-out."

Ordinarily, many projects mean higher taxes. Somehow, the projects have to be paid for.

"We've raised taxes only one mill on the county level," Price said. "Actually, we've re-instituted the mill that was dropped last year. The present mills equal the 1962 mills."

How then, since the budget is almost a third higher than last year, is the money raised?

"Higher assessment," Pipher said. "There are many more new buildings in the county, and the value of property in the county has gone up."

Fair market value levels in the county rose almost $9,000,000 this year; this means an added $3,000,000 (approximately) on assessment. Thus, one mill this year yields an additional $3,000,000—again approximately—over the amount a mill yielded last year.

According to Price and Pipher, who brainstormed together yesterday over the accomplishments of the board since January, the following are some of the projects the new commissioners have "been saddled with." This means that these projects were either initiated by previous boards and left to the new board to pay for, or should have been accomplished by previous boards and weren't.

"Spouting. The whole courthouse needs new spouts on the rain gutters," Price and Pipher both said.

"The county home; here's a $600,000 project which was just started in March, although the plans were made by the previous board."

Saddled With CD Expenses

"We've been saddled with Civil Defense expenses. The project in the courthouse basement is costing well over $100,000."

"We've had to put four new IBM typewriters in here. The old typewriters were falling apart. They should have been replaced long ago."

"How about those wooden plank stairs in the front and middle of the courthouse? They should have been fixed, also."

"We've had to install adequate lighting along the whole first floor of the courthouse. People have been hollering about the lighting for five or six years. The lawyers can hardly see in the register and recorder's office."

"We've purchased at least four filing cabinets. . . we had a shortage of those."

"We moved the surplus food office to Bank Alley and fixed up the office there—installed desks, etc."

"We had to fix the sinks and catwalks in the jail."

"The County Superintendent of Schools needed a new oil burner in his office—that had to be installed."

"We fixed the barn roof at the county home; we installed a new Civil Defense antenna on the courthouse roof."

"These tax appeals from the camps—they've been left go for years—so we have to hear them, too."

"Going To Pot"

"Let's face it," Pipher said, "This courthouse was going to pot."

The next category is "new projects," and the tone of the commissioners' voices softens and they smile proudly when they speak of:

"The Sheltered Workshop. That's something we have given money towards. It's a very worthwhile project (the workshop will give jobs to handicapped people in the county)."

"Hiring Ray Saunders as investigator was an innovation. It took a great workload off of us and saved the county some money."

"The Third St. park will be something," Pipher said. Price agreed, "It'll be big and have plenty for kids to do."

"The Monroe County Planning Commission has been reactivated under our administration. There's a project that has been needed in this area for a long time. Today, a county like this one can't survive without a planning board."

"We've attended many meetings on the upper Broadhead watershed project. This will eliminate flood danger by attacking the problem at its source—the headwaters. If you can control the water there, it won't be a problem when it gets to Stroudsburg."

"We're currently engaged in delineating a new liquid fuels tax structure. The old structure was obsolete, since the allocations are based on the number of miles of roads and the population of the townships. Things change, you know."

"We've instituted a new accounting system for the commissioners, the probation office, Pleasant Valley Manor, and the farm there."

"We're considering setting up a county mental health planning commission which would coordinate efforts of health and welfare agencies towards better mental health."

"A complete revision of the occupational tax program has been undertaken through the chief assessor. This will make occupational taxes more meaningful and more fair."

"We had meetings with all agencies which handle county money, and we went over their requests for money on this year's budget."

"The Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc. has been recognized as the official county industrial promotion agency, and for the first time the commissioners have supported the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau with money."

"Bond coverage of all county employees has been updated," Reaser said.

It must be said that William Reaser, the chief clerk, has worked as doggedly as the commissioners to bring these programs about. All the correspondence and a lot of the paperwork devolves on him.

The next category is "investigations requiring legwork," and gives an indication of the amount of travel that the commissioners have done to gather first-hand knowledge of some area problems.

"We've been up to the Pocono Mountains Airport a number of times," Pipher said, "trying to get it into working operation. When it is working, it will probably be less of a drain on the county."

"They're fixing a county bridge at Henryville," Price said. "We've gone up there and looked at it."

On The Go

Price added, "We've gone out to Tanite Road and Dogwood Gardens and looked over the possible flooding conditions at those two places; called in state forests and waters men to look it over, and are acquiring recommendations."

"We also went to Gracedale—the Northampton County equivalent of Pleasant Valley Manor—and toured that institution."

"We covered a series of planning meetings at East Stroudsburg State College," Price said. "There were 12 of them, even though I only went to eight," he added sheepishly.

"All this was in addition to regular and normal county business," Pipher said.

Reaser added, "We all have to agree that this was a great amount of work in just three months."

It has been a volume of work. Where many reporters to agree that this was a great amount of work in just three months."

Japanese Customs Described

EAST STROUDSBURG — At a recent meeting, the local chapter of the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship had as its guest speaker Miss Toshiko Yamashita of Kobe, Japan.

Miss Yamashita is a graduate student of the International Christian University of Tokyo and is presently a special student at East Stroudsburg State College.

She spoke on Japan, its religion and culture as slides were shown of various Buddhist temples, Shinto shrines, and rock gardens popular in Japan.

A question and answer period followed the lecture show. Miss Yamashita is currently planning to return home in May. Refreshments were served. The meeting was held at the Monroe Security Bank.

Why dip into savings
when a low cost
HOME LOAN
may be the answer

First, borrowing keeps your emergency savings intact and growing. Second, borrowing at our Full Service Bank is the best way to build a credit reputation. When you're ready for that major expenditure, your savings account and your credit reputation help you borrow what you need. With ease.

□ A Home Improvement Loan can add to the value and beauty of your Home now when your family can enjoy it most and you can repay in convenient budget amounts. Renovations can save costly repairs later. It would make good sense to save money on loans. Ask about a low-cost Home Loan. □ One of the many services at our Full Service Bank.
